

The bachelor thesis named „Supernatural level of thinking" comes out mainly from the qualitative research, which was executed on this theme. So, it deals with the approach of sepurnature by students who had participated in this research. This thesis is composed of three main chapters. Of theoretical chapter, of methodological chapter, finally of practical chapter.

In the theoretical there are explained concepts generated from the research explained. These concepts are afterwards used in the practical chapter, so they are important to be understood by a reader. These are concepts as the magic, the religion and the supernatural esence.

In the methodological chapter there is a short discourse about a qualitative research, about a research sample and mainly about methods, which were used for the research. As the main method I present an interview there, I mention also the other merhods which were used, method of observation and questionnaire method.

Finally, the practical chapter comes out mainly from interviews, that were executed with the students. In this part I cite their opinions and experience that they have with the supernature. These citations are going hand in hand with general analysis of gained information.

I assume that this thesis could among others help to better awareness of this question, also because this theme is not so often elaborated from the psychological sight.
